

Toralf Cod's Memorial Fund is honoured to award:

Anthony W. Pahl
and
the International War Veterans' Poetry Archives (IWVPA)

Toralf Cod's MEMORIAL AWARD AND PRIZE

The Memorial Award and Prize is awarded Mr. Pahl in recognition of his efforts to further understanding, peace and human rights through the exceptional forum called the International War Veterans' Poetry Archives (IWVPA).

"Through the IWVPA Mr. Pahl provides a channel for those who otherwise might not allow themselves to be heard, to express their feelings on what often times changed them forever; war or armed conflict. Further, it provides a place for those who have never seen war first hand to learn more of its effect on the human mind and spirit. The IWVPA stands out from the crowd with its non-excluding practice and non-judgemental attitudes. It furthers understanding and peace by allowing all veterans of all sides of all conflicts to express themselves freely and making these expressions available to the public through the Internet.

Toralf Cod's Memorial Award and Prize commemorates the memory of the poet, son, brother, father, husband and soldier who's name it bears. It strives to continue his legacy of compassion, dedication and self sacrifice by supporting individuals and organisations who through words, conviction and action seek to further understanding, peace and human rights.

Anthony Pahl is recognised not only for his service to the many nameless members of the international community of veterans of war and armed conflicts, but also for the profoundly positive impact he and the IWVPA had on Toralf Cod during his last months on Earth.

The Toralf Cod's Memorial Awards Committee expresses their gratitude and admiration for your contributions.
